Daniel R. Flowers, President & CEO

Dear Friends,

We see the signs throughout our community, and you have most likely seen them too. One reads, "Lost job, losing home. Please help." Another says, "I am a good father. I have two hungry kids. Anything will be appreciated." The variations on these calls for help are as diverse as the economic circumstances that create them. It is for them that the Akron-Canton Regional Foodbank holds up its own sign, and it says in bold letters: We Work for Food. And this is how: Powered by the creativity and ambitious reach of our Strategic Plan, we continue to successfully guide the Foodbank as it responds to our community's ever-increasing demand for food. In 2010, we reached significant milestones in each area of our Strategic Plan. Here are a few highlights:

Fight Hunger Regionally. Through targeted outreach and collaboration with community leaders, the Foodbank exceeded national food distribution benchmarks set by Feeding America throughout our eight counties.

Feed More People. The Foodbank has increased distribution every year since 2003. In 2010, a record distribution of 19.2 million pounds of food served more than one million clients.

Energize, Mobilize, Act. Foodbank volunteers provided 24,340 hours of support in 2010 alone—that already exceeds our 2012 goal of 23,000 hours!

One of our most famous astronauts, Buzz Aldrin, once said, "If we can conquer space, we can conquer childhood hunger." And we are working towards conquering hunger in our community. We are soaring to new heights. Because We Work for Food. We work to eliminate tough choices like, "Do I pay rent or put food on the table?" In fact, in many key areas we exceeded the year's goals that we set for ourselves. Still, for all we have accomplished there is much to do.

There's talk that the economy may be recovering, but it can't recover fast enough for those in urgent need of food, for the chorus of desperate fathers and mothers and children who have turned, in their hour of need, to the Akron-Canton Regional Foodbank for relief. Together, through our continued efforts and commitment, we can make sure that relief is within reach when they turn to us. We Work for Food. Will you join us?

Sincerely,

Daniel R. Flowers

Our Member Agencies

The most vital connection to our clients, our Member Agencies, grew last year to a network of 458 hunger-relief programs. Together, the Foodbank and this network have always been committed to providing safe and nutritious food to our hungry neighbors. In 2010, we reinforced our commitment, dedicating a staff member to food safety education, developing a curriculum and reaching 100% agency training completion by year end. As the agencies continue to Work for Food, we continue to do everything possible to ensure that together we are delivering safe, high-quality food to families in need.

WE WORK
FOR FOOD

In 2010, the Foodbank led the charge for the state budget, by providing a voice for the many vulnerable Ohioans in need of food. We engaged Member Agencies in a statewide "Paper Plate Campaign" to request a continuation of funding on behalf of Ohio's food banks. More than 20,000 Foodbank clients wrote messages on paper plates that were delivered to legislators, underscoring the need for their support.

Since 2007, Weda Norwood has worked with us as a line volunteer sorting and inspecting donated items to ensure they are safe for distribution.

Our Volunteers

In 2010, our record 1,695 volunteers clocked more than 24,000 hours of support working for food. That's a phenomenal number and essential for the operation of the Foodbank's grassroots fight against hunger. Whether inspecting, sorting or repacking products, collaborating to devise strategic plans as a committee or board member or helping to plan vital fundraising events, these volunteers contributed hours equivalent to 12 full-time employees. The impact of volunteer support is felt in homes of the hungry throughout our community.

FOR FOOD

Many of our agency programs, 74% of pantries and 53% of hot meal sites, operate entirely with volunteers. Operation of these programs exists because thousands of individuals choose to give their time wholeheartedly to help others make ends meet.

Bill Frantz, President of Sandridge Food Corporation, one of the year's top five donors, gave 182,649 pounds of food in 2010.

Our Donors

In any given week, approximately 40,600 people receive emergency food assistance from the Foodbank, and they receive it because our dedicated donors help keep the shelves stocked and the meals coming. In fact, because of our strong partnerships in 2010, nearly 90% of the food we distributed was because corporations, foundations and individuals gave generously to support hunger relief. Fortunately, our donors don't just Work for Food—they're the ones who provide it, often by the truckload.

FOR FOOD

HARVEST
for HUNGER

In 2010, Harvest for Hunger, one of the nation's largest food and funds drive campaigns, collected 96,644 pounds of food and raised $715,876 through the collective efforts of 206 community food and funds drive locations.

Our Staff

When you work for the Akron-Canton Regional Foodbank, you Work for Food. That means you work for the dignity, health, and security of people in need. That's no easy job; but when you consider that roughly 23.8% of children in Ohio under 5 years of age are food insecure, the question becomes "how can you not Work for Food?" If ever there was a labor of love, this is it, with staff from all disciplines coming together to help distribute 19.2 million pounds of food in 2010, a 48% increase since moving into our new 85,000 square foot building in 2007.

FOR FOOD

We Continue to Work for Food

As in years past, in 2010 we took great strides forward. However, the rising of food insecurity rates reminds us that a basic need for food remains for many of our friends and neighbors.

We continue to increase the amount of food we distribute, working towards our 2012 distribution goal of 20 million pounds, providing more food to more people. We are building the capacity of our network, through collaboration and innovation, reaching more individuals throughout our entire service area. We are raising more funds, enabling us to source more food and expand our programs such as direct food distributions. And we continue to increase the awareness of our brand and the issue of hunger in our community, engaging more volunteers, advocates and donors every day.

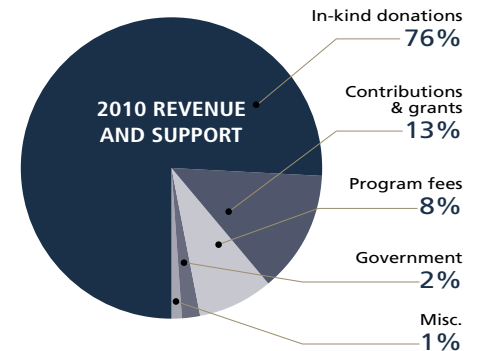

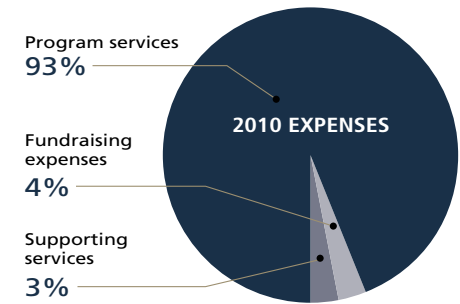

Everyone deserves to live and work in a community absent of hunger and poverty, but this cannot be accomplished without all of us standing together. If we all play a part, if we all continue to Work for Food, we can provide the invaluable gift of a brighter outlook on tomorrow.

WE WORK
FOR FOOD
